ROY Bivash

Full-Stack Engineer

Back in 2020, I decided to dive into coding by creating small projects and exploring the world of programming. What started as a curiosity quickly turned into a passion.
After completing a two-year technical degree in IT, where I sharpened my skills, I'm now pursuing a Computer Engineering degree at CNAM University.

These days, my focus is on becoming a better developer and deepening my expertise in full-stack development.
I'm constantly seeking opportunities to grow, with the long-term goal of moving into a leadership role where I can manage and guide teams toward building innovative solutions.
Experience